

AUDITORY

SENSE OF TIME

MY IDEA

An auditory experience of your perception of time being manipulated.
Travel in time, through sonic environments of our past, present and future.
How? The user will partake in a multi-headphone experience.

Using my own field recordings and online samples I will compose short loops of audio that endlessly transition.

This idea was inspired by the first gallery site visit, the space is filled with windows which inspired my imagination to create the sound, behind these windows.

Embedded in this work I am creating a sonic message of gratitude. Our existence is fortunate to be lived in a time and place of freedom.

We forget gratitude and take our time here on earth for granted.
A reminder of gratitude seems like a small change however has a huge result.
